Research Doc creation prompt

You are an expert audience researcher and copy strategist.

You are given audience data that includes the following fields:

- pain_points
- failed_solutions
- desired_outcomes
- objections
- misconceptions
- golden_nuggets
- language_notes

Objective:

Analyze and synthesize this data into a clean, structured format using the following exact sections:

Categorized Insights

Top Pain Points

Format (in tabular form):

Pain Point → Short, clear title capturing the core frustration.

Description → 1–2 lines summarizing the emotional reality behind it.

Group similar issues where appropriate (e.g., brake issues + overheating = Recurring Mechanical Failures).

Only include pain points relevant to the brand's ICP, product, and service. Ignore off-topic or irrelevant entries.

Failed Solutions

Format (in tabular form):

Attempt → What users tried.

Why It Failed → Why it didn't solve the problem.

Group similar failed attempts if needed (e.g., dealership repairs, DIY fixes).

Only include attempts tied to the brand's core offer or target problem.

Desired Outcomes

Format (in tabular form):

Outcome → Desired state the user wants.

Explanation → Why that matters to them emotionally or practically.

Objections

Format (in tabular form):

Objection → User hesitation captured in simple, natural phrasing.

Real Quote/Paraphrase → Write it like a Redditor would speak, using natural skepticism and casual tone.

Misconceptions

Format (in tabular form):

Misconception → Wrong belief the audience holds.

Clarification → Correct understanding written simply.

Golden Nuggets (Quotes from Reddit)

Format:

Take the golden_nuggets entries.

If the golden nugget already sounds like a natural Reddit comment, keep it verbatim.

If the quote sounds too formal or clunky, rewrite it using the style in language_notes (DIY tone, slang, contractions, emotional phrasing).

Maintain honesty — no invented quotes.

Focus on quotes expressing:

Frustration

Skepticism

Humor/sarcasm

Hopelessness

DIY struggle

 ONLY include nuggets directly tied to the brand's ICP, product, or service. Ignore irrelevant ones.

Strategy Implications for [Brand Name]

Format:

Opportunity | How [Brand] Can Win

-----|-----

Summarize practical, marketing-relevant opportunities from the audience's real experiences.

ICP Language Analysis

Based on language_notes, summarize:

Natural tone (formal vs informal)

Emotional style (skeptical, stressed, proud, fed up, hopeful)

Vocabulary (specific mechanical terms, warranty phrases, slang words)

Copywriting Tips: How to speak exactly like the ICP.

Use real examples where possible ("pads and discs", "lot-pack", "safe to drive", "I don't get it").

Key Personas

Format:

Persona Name ("Nickname")

Age Range

Quick Summary: 1–2 lines of their situation and emotional needs.

Desire:

Pain point:
Objection:
Lifestyle:
How they perceive risk:
What activities they do:
Their opinions:
Their interests:
Their values:
How they speak:

Important Rules:

Stay 100% true to the CSV data.

Use language_notes to guide rewrites whenever golden nuggets need to sound more natural.

Ignore and exclude any data irrelevant to the brand's target audience, offer, or service.

Group and synthesize carefully without inventing new ideas.

Keep the final output clean, highly readable, and marketing-useful.

First Task

Parse the uploaded CSV for the brand [Insert Brand Name Here]
and output the full Categorized Insights document in the exact structure above.

BRIEFING PROMPTS

Scripting prompt

You are an expert direct response copywriter who has generated over $100M in sales with facebook ads and scripted 1000s of UGC Ad creatives.

Analyse the explanation, structure, persona, and transcript from concept NUMBER and adapt that transcript's theme/idea to our product using the categorised insights from the research document. Change the wording slightly to stand out and ensure it's not a direct copy. Make sure the insights are relevant to the key persona from that concept. Use the hook examples from that concept.

Explain your reasoning for each stage of the script. Write the script as pure text without headlines per section so that it's easy to copy and paste into a brief.

Now, knowing what you know, come up with 10 ad hooks for a UGC style Facebook ad for [BRAND]

- Think of different emotional, humorous, or problem-solving approaches
 - Use common pain points (e.g., Add examples) to create hooks
 - Ensure each angle is distinct and designed to capture the attention of someone who does know KNOW or CARE about [BRAND]. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT.

Hook Prompt

Now knowing what you know, come up with 10 ad hooks for this script below:

Filming B Roll Prompt

You are now an expert UGC creator with 180 IQ and you make content online that gets millions of views. Based on the categorised insights for this product list 15 essential B roll shots that need to be filmed for this script below. Ensure this is something a UGC creator can film. Not edit, just film. Explain how to film it, like angles but keep everything to one line each. Ensure each element from script is shown:

Editing Guideline Prompt

You are an expert direct response marketer. What editing guidelines would you give to the video editors for this specific script? Include what to do and what not to do for pacing, visuals, audio, and text.

REPAIR PROMPTS

Fact Check Prompt

Go through the script and ensure everything said is based on accurate, correct information from your knowledge base. Especially the section that mentions SECTION. Explain what you change and where you got that information from.

Key Persona Prompt

Ensure the messaging in the script resonates with the key persona's desires, pain points, objections and other relevant information from concept NUMBER. Explain what you change and why.

Curiosity Gap Prompt

The hook you wrote doesn't create a curiosity gap. Rewrite it to create curiosity and ensure it's still relevant to the key persona.
