

✓ Action Items: Craft Listicle Ads Using

The “CURE” Framework

1. CURIOSITY: Choose a Specific, Intriguing Hook

- Don't start with a generic “Here are 3 reasons why...”
 - Find a real pain point or scenario your buyer relates to (e.g., “If you get eight hours of sleep but still wake up exhausted...”).
 - Draft 5 hook variations that call out these true customer frustrations.

2. UNCOVER: Expose Current Solution Flaws

- Identify the top 3 failed approaches your audience tries (from your research doc).
 - For each, explain why it fails (e.g., “Melatonin disrupts your natural hormone cycle”).
 - Write 3 bullet-pointed “mistakes” with a brief 1-sentence flaw explanation under each.

3. REMEDY: Introduce Your Solution

- Present your product as the only fix for those mistakes (give the product name & unique mechanism).
 - Craft 1–2 sentences highlighting what makes your solution different (e.g., “NeuroRestore uses chronobiotic amino acids...”).

4. EVIDENCE: Provide Proof

- Use real proof: stats, studies, or user results (e.g., “80% of users slept better within one week”).
 - Pull one strong data point from your reviews, clinical studies or case studies to include in your brief.

5. ENGAGE: End with a Clear CTA

- Choose the single action you want viewers to take and write a concise CTA.

6. Build the Ad Brief

- Fill in the video brief template to send to your editor / UGC creator.
