

Speech	Text on screen	visual
Alcohol is actually not that toxic compared to what it turns into in your body, and that's what makes your next day feel like hell		[close up shot of a man taking a sip out of a glass beer bottle. The background is plain.] [a close up of a sliced open stomach, showing a layer of green stomach acid, and above it is a layer of yellow liquid slowly mixing with the acid. Background is a simple black backdrop. There are two tubes connecting the stomach to the top and bottom of the frame] [close up shot of a man (i will give reference image to image ai) looking hungover as fuck with messy hair and dark eye circles. He is half way sat up on his bed with his right hand on his forehead.]
They say hangovers get worse after 30, but no one tells you why. And you'd be surprised how simple and easy it is to prevent it.		[Close up shot of a man laying in his bed, with the sheets tightly tucked around his neck. The man is facing the camera. The window behind him has light rays coming in, showing that it's clearly morning. The man looks extremely hungover with heavy eyelids and half-open eyes that show pure despair.] [close up shot of a man (i will give reference image to image ai) looking hungover as fuck sitting on a desk in corporate cubicle. His hands are on the keyboard, he is slouched, he is wearing a blue button up shirt. Shoot from a ¾ angle facing him.] [Same shot of the man (i will give reference image to image ai), but instead of looking hungover, he look recovered. He is sat straight up, hair is neatly combed, he looks confident and has a smile.]
Before you drink this Friday, you need to see something that can save your entire weekend from a hangover that doesn't let you leave the bed.		[high to low shot at a ¾ angle of a hand pouring a mug of beer from one of those wooden barrels with a tap.] [Two british looking man, one black and one white, clinking two mugs of beer with beer waving and going out of themugs. Background is a simple empty bar. Shoot from straight on angle, showing hips up.] [Close up shot of a man laying in his bed (i will give reference image to image ai, but mention it's the man to the right of the reference image), with the sheets tightly tucked around his neck. The man is lying on his side and facing the camera. The window behind him has light rays coming in, showing that it's clearly morning. The man looks extremely hungover with heavy eyelids and half-open eyes that show pure despair.]

How people stopped ruining their weekends after Friday drinks because they understood this one simple thing. And it's not more hydration. This hangover prevention that's quietly transforming everyone's weekends after their Friday sessions. And it's not just drink more water.		[A close up shot of a man holding a comically tall mug of beer, he is looking at it with a semi surprised face. The background is simple. He is wearing a button up shirt with the sleeves rolled back] [the same man (reference image will be given to ai image generator) mid-stride running in a natural park. He has a head band, t shirt, runner shoes and shorts. He looks recovered, happy.] [the same man (reference image will be given to ai image generator) holding a comically large jug of water. It's so large he has to hold it with his arm like a hug. And he is looking at it with a terrified face. He has a sleep cap on and the background is his bedroom]
People think hangover is just because of dehydration. Wrong. It's because of something much worse that's surprisingly easy to prevent.		[man with slouched back standing in his living room, wearing a wrinkled suit, looking extremely tired with heavy eye bags. His left hand is holding a cup of steaming coffee, and he has a work computer back pack on.] [the same man (reference image will be given to ai image generator), looking tired like the reference image, in his bedroom sat down on his bed. With his pajamas at night time. He is holding a glass of water and looking up at the words "NOT JUST" "DEHYDRATION" In bolded red with white outlines. He has sort of a stunned expression.] [an anthropomorphic liver running away from an anthropomorphic menacing-looking red particle that's chasing it. There is an arrow pointing towards the red particle with the words "EASY TO" "PREVENT" At the beginning of the arrow, that's also center of the frame. The arrow should be pointing down at the red particle and ensure the color of the words stand out and are easy to read.

		The background is simple.]
--	--	----------------------------

When you drink, your liver turns alcohol into a toxin called acetaldehyde.

[Anthropomorphic beer bottle and anthropomorphic liver with arm over one another standing on a wooden desk with clear blue sky background with clouds and a sun on top right. There is also grass.]

To

[A menacing-looking anthropomorphized red particle with texture on it in the center of the frame, with a thunder storm in the background. The dark clouds should be covering the entire background with lighting coming out of it.]

It ruins your sleep, drains your energy, causes the 2-day headaches, and even gives you a special hint of anxiety.

[The anthropomorphized menacing red particle (I have a reference image and I'll provide it for the image generator), hovering over a person's shoulder, looking at him. The person looks very tired, his hair is messy, looks like he had a bad sleep, and has a terrible headache. The background is this person's living room and he is sitting on a sofa.]

[A anthropomorphized brain sat down]

No amount of hydration drinks or painkiller can fix this. Because your body is broken at a chemical level.

[The background is a dry and cracked soil, with a brain that has a nervous system connected to it, and liver laying on it (they have a low saturated color compared to the real organs). To the left of the organs, there is a glass of water that's tipped over creating a puddle of water (make sure water is clay), and 3 tablets of painkillers to the right of the brain. The shot should be a birds eye view shot. Above the water, there should be the writing of "water" and above the painkillers there should be the writing of "painkillers"]

[]

You need to support it before acetaldehyde ruins it for two days.

[A close-up straight angle shot of the top of a singular brain (with real brain colors), with mini construction worker figures with those yellow protective hats and orange vests holding hammers on top of the brain. There is also a yellow construction crane. The crane is moving a piece of metal sheet, and the brain already has 3 metal sheets installed with bolts.]

The compound DHM does exactly that.

[A Hovenia dulcis fruit in the center of the frame as the center of attention with the word "DHM" spelled above it. There is a blue light shining behind it, loads of greenery like vines, leaves, and grass around it. I want it to look almost magical.]

It neutralizes acetaldehyde and turns it into a harmless chemical you just pee out.

[3-4 menacing-looking anthropomorphized red particles with texture on them in the center of the screen. Two of them in the front are being melted away by a golden glowing liquid. The bottom left corner of the frame has dark clouds and thunder, while the rest of the screen has sun and clear sky with white clouds. This is to represent good weather taking over the bad weather and the golden liquid is eliminating the back red particles.]

If you want it simple, take NextDay with your last drink and wake up feeling at least 50% better - or money back.

[the NextDay supplement jar (reference image will be given to AI) in the center of the frame, with greenery surrounding it, vines holding pints of beers and filled wine glasses. There is a light blue glow coming from behind the product. There is hovenia dulcis fruit right next to the product jar. Make sure the product jar is also turned into a clay version]